

WILLIMANTIC

Two federal officers, Hickey and Bennett, from Hartford, assisted County Detective Jackson and Chief of Police Killourey in capturing a number of bootleggers Saturday night. Six of them, Charles Tack, James Shas, James Bulger, John Honger, William Richards and James Moriarty, were taken to Hartford by automobile for immediate trial in the federal court. Four other men, Dennis Spellacy, Samuel Rathbun, Charles Trudeau and Daniel Sullivan, were also taken, but were released and their cases are still pending.

The latest figures available from the United War Work drive show that there has been subscribed between $18,000 and $19,000. Because of the practical loss of two days due to the Victory celebration, the campaign has been extended to Wednesday night.

Attorney General Hinman, who is the chairman of the Windham district committee, expressed himself as being sure that the quota of $21,000 would be reached.

To give people who have already subscribed and those who have been missed on the way, the Liberty cottage will be kept open by Mrs. Frank P. Fenton and her assistant, Mrs. Barrows, is at his home on Prospect street for a short time.

Mrs. Charles Starr is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Willmarth, of Windham road.

William Jewett, chairman of the Hampton United War Work drive, reports subscriptions as being $200.20.

DANIELSON

Raymond Hanson and Arthur Barlow, both in the naval service at Newport, spent Sunday at their homes in Danielson.

Sunday's casualty lists contained the name of Joseph O'Neil, Danielson, Conn., "missing in action." This brings great relief to his friends here who had previously heard reported that he had been killed in action.

Armand Heneault, Joseph Miller and Harry Brearley were the Dayville men who were at Worcester Saturday to attend the annual meeting of the National Association of Woolen Overseers at the Hotel Bancroft.

Chief Michael Grimshaw, who has been ill with pneumonia, has developed a case of blood poisoning and will not be able to return to duty for some time.

Millmen here say that positions will be open for the large number of former operatives who are in the service.

A delegation from the Westfield Congregational church of this place attended the funeral services for Rev. Frank D. Sargent, pastor of the Westfield Congregational church at Putnam, at that church Saturday.

The social planning committee of the Westfield Congregational church has arranged a get-together meeting to be held at the church vestry Tuesday evening.

Cards have been received here from Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Barnett, who left here last Monday on route by motor car of Campbellford, Ont. Mr. Barnett writes that they saw, probably, more celebrations of victory last Monday than any other residents of Danielson, for they rode through many towns each and every one celebrating the allied triumph.

Killingly's big manufacturing plants are already beginning to feel the effects of the readjustments made necessary by the near advent of peace. Most of these concerns have been wholly or in large degree engaged on government contracts. They will be castalment at once on some of this government work and arrangements will go forward toward getting the mills back on a non-war-time basis.

While some of the manufacturers feel some nervousness over the transition period, there is no fear that business will not be good. The Whitehouse Woolen company mill at Killingly closed Saturday, with the exception of the finishing room, for a period of two weeks. It is understood that the plant is to change over its line to goods.

At the churches in Danielson services were marked with anthems of victory and other features attesting the joy of the congregations over the ending of the war.

There was a service of thanksgiving at the Congregational church in the morning, and this included an especially fine musical program. In the evening at this church, Rev. W. B. Williams, the pastor.

The Victory service at the Methodist church also was in the morning. The church was prettily decorated and the music was in keeping with the occasion. St. Alban's church also held a Thanksgiving service on Sunday morning, the service conducted by Rev. Albert Jepson.

All of the Sunday services at St. James' were made reverently joyous by the spirit of victory. The church was beautifully decorated with the colors of the United States and of France, there was patriotic music and fervent prayers of thanksgiving.

The great service of the 134 boys of the parish in service, was suspended from the dome of the sanctuary. In the evening at this church, there was a special service of thanksgiving attended by nearly 1,000 persons. The united choirs of the church sang the To Deum and patriotic songs, and there was benediction of the blessed of the war.

Surrogations that the time is not far distant when the 26th division, made up of New England boys, will arrive at the port of Boston from overseas, means that there will be a stampede of people from town in this section to welcome the boys when they pass in review in a great demonstration in the streets of the Massachusetts capital. It will be a day of which the people here will be proud to remember.

Following a hunt in which a party from the Mason homestead participated, was held Sunday that five coons were taken. James Kent and his famous coon dogs took part in the hunt.

Mrs. Julie Daume, 71, died at her home here. She was a native of Canada but had lived in Danielson for many years. She leaves two daughters, Mrs. Virginia Allen and Mrs. Ida Pellerin, a number of grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

During the early hours of Saturday morning the house known as the Fuller or Durfee house, near the schoolhouse at East Killingly, was destroyed by fire and the members of the Woodburn family, only recent arrivals in East Killingly, barely escaped with their lives. They were awakened by smoke and the crackling of the flames and had just time enough to get out of the burning structure. The house, which was more than 100 years old, has been known by several generations of East Killingly people. It is believed that a defective chimney was the cause of the fire. The house was destroyed with all of its contents.

Although exact figures were not in the hands of the committee Sunday afternoon, there seemed reason to believe that the Danielson district had raised its apportionment of $9,000 for the United War Work drive. Judge Shumway said figures that he had in hand covered reports made up to Friday night only. He was particularly pleased with the splendid showing made by the Killourey family, who contributed $1,000, an average of $4.50 per capita, or 27 per cent of the town's share of the fund to be raised. Judge Shumway has written the company of congratulatory letters. The mill subscriptions here referred to were made by the employees exclusively, and they have set up a remarkable record. In addition, the Connecticut Mills company contributed $1,000.

Mrs. E. H. Keach, who has had charge of many of the canvassing teams, said Sunday afternoon that the giving had been perfectly wonderful. "I feel very confident," she said, "that the final figure will show at least $10,000, and we may possibly get $11,000 in the district. I have had in excess of $7,000 reported. These figures do not include Dayville's contributions.

PUTNAM

Miss Elizabeth Child will have the members of the King's Daughters at her home for a meeting Wednesday afternoon.

This is the week for the making of Thanksgiving offerings to the Day Kimball Hospital.

W. E. Davison, who is a government inspector at Manchester, N. H., was one of the Putnam men at the Over-land Association meeting at the Bancroft in Worcester, Saturday.

Mrs. Henry Martell of Trenton, N. J., has been spending a few days with relatives in Putnam.

The number of soldiers who passed through this city Saturday afternoon indicated that leaves were being given with a lavish hand at Camp Devens.

Private Earl Gibeay, reported sometime ago having been wounded in action, is now able to get about with crutches.

Private Oscar Swanson of North Grovenordale was one of those reported as missing in action in Saturday's casualty lists. If he is a prisoner, his friends and relatives have the consolation that he will not be for long.

The work of the local board is not completed, but the opinion of the contrary notwithstanding, the board has a great deal remaining to be done, and is relieved only of the necessity of handling further questionnaires and inducting men into service. The complete clerical staff is retained and is being kept very busy.

Earle Tourtelotte, who has been very ill with pneumonia, died at his home on Grove street. He was the son of Ervin Tourtelotte. Mr. Tourtelotte leaves his wife and a child, Marshall. Mrs. Tourtelotte was reported Sunday afternoon as dangerously ill with pneumonia.

A congregation that filled the church of which he had been the beloved pastor for 23 years, attended the funeral services for Rev. Frank D. Sargent, at the Second Congregational church Saturday morning. The service was held at 10 o'clock and was very impressive, for it was made up of representatives of all denominations and all ages.

The George W. Ide place and the Juda Hosen place have recently been sold and the new owners are occupying the place.

There was a largely attended auction Thursday at the home of the late Winfield J. Phillips when horses, stock, and a large number of farming implements and articles were disposed of at good prices. Buyers were present from Eastford, Mansfield, Willimantic, Colchester and other places.

SHUNOC
Miss Beatrice Maine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Maine, was taken suddenly ill Monday, Oct. 28, when teaching the school in district No. 4. The next day Dr. Thurman P. Maine carried her to Lawrence hospital, New London, where an operation for appendicitis was performed. Friends were glad to hear from her mother who went to visit her Thursday. She is able to sit up and is anticipating being brought to her home soon.

CARDINAL O'CONNELL PARKWAY DEDICATED
Lowell, Mass., Nov. 17.—The throbbing mills along the river valleys of this manufacturing city and the churches on its heights were made the symbol of the blending of the material and the spiritual in American life by Cardinal O'Connell in an address delivered at the dedication today of the Cardinal O'Connell parkway. He made an earnest plea for the days of reconstruction Americans stand "firmly now and always for law and order and justice."

The cardinal is a native of Lowell and the city has paid tribute to the eminent position he has attained in the church by giving his name to its newest parkway, situated opposite the group of municipal buildings. A large fountain, surmounted by a bronze bust of the prelate, standing in the center of the thoroughfare, is the gift of the cardinal to the people of Lowell.

In acknowledging the honor paid him, Cardinal O'Connell said: "And now after the night of battle comes the dawn of peace. In war we have faced our duty nobly, in peace we must do likewise—peace has its high obligations as well as war. We have defended our country by standing for law, for order, for right and truth, and justice to all. We shall best preserve the property and honor of our beloved America in the peaceful days just dawning by standing firmly now and always for law and order and justice among all our fellow citizens throughout the land."

Services of Thanksgiving were held in various churches of the city Sunday morning. The day will long be remembered by the congregations as Victory Sunday. Tonight comes the special service of Thanksgiving at St. Philip's church, which will be crowded to the doors, it is expected.

Next Thursday will bring the second annual corn show of the Windham County Farmers' association to this city. The annual event promises now to become a feature in the city. The event has stirred up a great deal of interest and friendly rivalry between corn growers. This show also holds special interest for the women, for the displays in the domestic science department are of such a nature as to arouse each woman's curiosity as to how it was done and to learn how she can produce the same results on her own account.

About $10,000 has been raised thus far in the Stonington district for the war chest. Of this sum $147.50 came from the schools.

Mrs. William Wagner left Saturday for Willimantic, Ohio, where she will spend the winter.

Mrs. F. Schellhaas and son, Ferdinand, have gone in a visit to Long Island and New York.

James McGee and family have moved to Brooklyn, N. Y.

The Stonington Red Cross wants the present address of every Stonington man in the service.

Wardens Drandall presided at the United patriotic service in Borough hall, Sunday evening. There was a large attendance.

The Hawaiian Congress has inwhich will very probably be at least $1,000, nor does it include anything for Goodwives, some other parts of the town of Killingly, nor any part of Brooklyn excepting the West Side. (Neither does it include contributions from the plant of the Danielson Cotton company.) We have received $1,000 from the Quinebaug company and $300 from the operators of that concern. The house to house canvass has netted upwards of $2,000, which I consider a remarkably good showing. We also have not heard from the schools yet, and we are anticipating about $1,000 from this source and some other avenues of revenue.

Mrs. Keach pointed out that the splendid record made here should not be taken as grounds for anyone not to contribute because the district's goal has been reached or is certain to be. "Give" is still the motto. Every dollar is needed.
